Heart jackhammering, palms soaked, doom-scrolling my own thoughts. Panic attack #3 this week. Typed “Diazepam overnight” with shaky thumbs Midnight Drugs’ Calm Storm Doorstep flashed up. One click, done.

Chose 10 mg tabs, hit “doorstep rush,” paid with PayPal (felt Fort Knox secure), and tried to breathe.

8:03 a.m.soft knock. Small brown bubble mailer, my name in Sharpie. Inside: pharmacy blister pack, blue pills, legit Valium insert. Took one under the tongue.

By 8:25 the storm broke. Shoulders dropped, thoughts slowed, actually heard the birds outside. Slept four solid hours, woke up human.

Real-time receipts:

- Ordered 3:11 a.m. → confirmation ping
- “Shipped” 5:49 a.m. → tracking went live
- Delivered 8:03 a.m. → signed, stashed

No pharmacy glare, no “fill it tomorrow,” no explaining myself. Just calm, doorstep-delivered.
